PROGRAM

It's scary how easily I get lost in Camp: in the traditions, in the beauty, in the work, in the craziness, in the friendships. The weeks fly by, but each summer it feels as if we have been here for years. I truly have missed Barton in my years off. It has been great to be home amongst, literally, the most energetic, hard working, family-oriented staff I have had the pleasure to work with. I put myself totally into my work here at Barton and I see many of my staff members doing the same. Most camps do not have this mentality and are not invested, but that is why WE ARE THE BARTON STAFF.

Enough with the "feelings" portion... onto the dirty secrets of this year's program:

1. The Little Venice Pirate ship smelled like Pirates before even coming. Also, the bikini top on our figurehead went missing a few times.
2. Little Bunny Foo Foo terrifies me- as I feel as though any moment I will be drinking from the water bottle like during the Staff Week's version. Those who were there know what I am talking about.
3. Best "Lost and Found" item of the summer: bowie knife on a swinging rope supposedly used to kill bugs.
4. Best complaint (mind you, 80% of my job is fielding complaints) of the summer: It is ridiculous that we close the waterfront when it thunders when his son wants to do the mile swim... I say let the kid out.
5. Our boats suck, but not as much as our last Program Director.
6. I've been sick since Staff week. I just fake it. After every meal announcement, I hack up a lung.
7. The Iron Man loop is not actually 3 miles, but we just factor in the lack of oxygen at the top of the hill.
8. My personal favorite moment of each week: hearing the phrase "songs of pleasure" said by a seductive women's voice during each slideshow.

2013 Theme: Second Star to the Right and Straight on 'til Barton

This year's theme was given to me as Peter Pan and Camp Neverland. However, Michael Jackson's legacy destroyed that theme before it even started. So, I quickly changed theme to a Pirates vs. Lost Boys adventure, which in turn devolved into a hodgepodge of 80s references, rotting costumes, ever-changing accents, pies hitting sheep masks, Jake kicking out fairies, and a Captain Hook whose Whoopie Goldberg wig and plastic hook never stayed on. At least our Pirate Games and giant ship were awesome.

Love always,

COMMISSIONER

On July 31st, 2013, at approximately 10:30am after an extremely mundane summer, I was galloping down the hill after doing campsite inspections ever so gracefully, when suddenly Alex Plesnar threw a rake at me causing me to fall. After I was able to get up, he presumed to chase me down the hill, causing me to fall again at which point I cut my leg open right under my kneecap. He laughed like a million Mike McDangerzone's after hearing a bad joke about a presumed dead baby, and decided to kick me in the gut, causing me to continue my plummet down the hill. After I stopped rolling I was able to regain my composure enough to crawl to the BBQ pit where I passed out. When I came to, Mikey Carlson was standing over me, along with Amy and her first aid class. They then proceeded to cut my leg more and more, constantly throwing pebbles and small bits of sea glass into the open wound. As the blood poured from my system and onto the ground, I started to weep at my own expense, asking them to stop but alas, they wouldn't stop the violence. Then they started carrying me to the health lodge on what seemed to be a close resemblance of a stretcher, but the worst part? After we got there, that crazy nurse started cutting into my spine trying to fish out my kidneys with a bone saw, just to sell them on the black market. Thank goodness that Sasquatch showed up to release me, or else I would have been done for. In retrospect though, it was a horrible experience and I hope I never have to go back there again.

HEALTH LODGE

On July 31st, 2013, at approximately 1030; Yvonne Plesnar was running down the hill with a bow saw after cutting a tent platform in half. She tripped over a rock and tumbled down the hill screaming "WEE!!" the entire time. When she got to the bottom of the hill her brother, Alex Plesnar, tried to help her up. Instead of accepting his help she ran away until she stepped on a garden rake in front of the barbecue pit, and was knocked unconscious when it hit her in the head. Mikey Carlson responded to the scene and immediately called me over the radio. I was teaching first aid merit badge at the time so I had to bring my class with me to the scene. When we got there Yvonne was refusing assistance and throwing rocks and dirt into her cut saying Mikey was hurting her. My class was very confused as to why she was throwing rocks at herself while holding a saw. We decided it would be best to take her back to the health lodge so that I could evaluate her condition. When I got her inside I was able to get the saw away from her, but only after suffering a nasty laceration to the outer aspect of my duodenum. At this time she started screaming that I was cutting her and trying to steal her kidneys. I suspect the patient was hallucinating at this point, as I had only removed one kidney, not both. I thought it in the patients best interest to "sedate" her and call an ambulance to take her to CMC. As we waited for the ambulance, she kept twitching, I was rather skived out.

NATURE

The Nature Lodge has been destroyed. You are needed to rebuild.

These words were heard by 6 individuals, spoken not by mouths, but by knotweed. How it was done is unknown, but the message went all the same. The first to receive this whispered message was Greg O Connor. He was quite distraught, and immediately dropped his well, ok, he wasn't actually doing anything at the time. But regardless, he rushed to the Lodge as quickly as he could. Bri of the Trees was the next to hear, and she traversed the distance at a rate much reduced by her need to ensure the aesthetics of the roads she travelled. How the knotweed informed the Man of Many Names remains unclear, but it is indeed known that the man known as Tiny, Saint, and Tyler, while in his rocket to the heavens, heard the call. Kaitlyn Mroczka was riding a mutant catbird and saw a field of destroyed squirrel huts. Landing to investigate, she found they were made of knotweed, and it spoke its fateful message. Ben Stewart, a mad scientist known for experiments involving mass quantities of dry ice, on a whim that fateful day brought in some knotweed for his work, heard of the horror, and left his lab perfectly sealed to keep it safe, only to have it explode from the gas build up inside. Deep underground is another location where one would not expect knotweed to be, but there it was. As was Alex Plesnar, a student of rocks and stars, and so he too heard the call.

NATURE

Upon their arrival, they found the knotweed to speak truly. All that was left of the once proud Gannet Lodge was a scorched crater where it had sat. With heavy hearts, the staff began to rebuild. Observing with his telescope that the Lodge had been the victim of arson, Alex proposed a stone structure to resist fire, with a tower with which to watch for attackers, though everyone knew he only wanted to have a better place to look at stars from, and a chance to have his rocks closer yet to his heart. Ben suggested thick walls, so as to prevent them from being taken down by attackers and maybe to contain his explosive experiments. From Saint, it was brought up that height would be useful for resisting siege, and so that his rockets would have a better chance of reaching orbit. Kaitlyn noted that incredibly large size would allow for the growth of resources within the walls, and at the same time give her birds all the space to fly they could want. Bri, a member of the hit musical group Johnny V and the Barton Babes wanted a great hall to allow for performances. Greg wanted a fancy office, with guards to allow him to be alone in peace, and a big chair to sit in while he worked. Upon completion of their endeavor, they looked at their new Nature Lodge, and were satisfied. However, Greg noted that it was no longer merely a lodge. Their changes had created a Nature Castle. And of course, always quick to satisfy his ego, he declared himself King using the oldest and most successful method known to man, doing it first.

With their new castle completed, they set about trying to determine who destroyed the old lodge. Kaitlyn sent out her birds to use as scouts, and quickly they returned. It was Admin. With Jeff at the vanguard, they had waited till the old lodge was empty, and put it to the torch. His Grace proposed a plan. The Nature Staff would commit a crime just as heinous, they would steal JEFF'S HAT. After hearing the plan, the Staff sprang into action. Brianna would host a Johnny V concert, and while Jeff was in attendance, Saint would fire a rocket under him such that it would catch the hat, and carry it off. Unlike most plans concocted by His Grace, it went perfectly. That is, until Saint wore the hat in victory. The moment it was placed on his head, Saint heard a whispering, similar to that of the knotweed, but far more sinister. It was telling him to destroy the nature lodge, and he couldn't come up with a reason not to listen. So, he went to the castle with one of Alex's hammers, and started swinging while shouting Tear down the Wall. Luckily for our heroes, Saint isn't exactly the pinnacle of physical fitness, and his blows glanced off like the wind. Upon seeing this treachery, His Grace ordered Saint's head to be swiftly cut off. However, as the guillotine was being prepared, the hat fell off of his head, and Saint screamed No, no, wait The hat made me do it. And yet, upon seeing the hat fall to the ground, Ben picked it up and proceeded to mix some chemicals together that would surely erode the castle away. Now convinced, His Grace ripped the hat from Ben's head and ordered a fire built for its destruction. As soon as the words were out of his mouth, a piercing cry of NOOO went through the air. The Hat began to plead for its life. It explained that it had always wanted to take Nature merit badges, but had never been allowed to. Hearing this, they offered the Hat a place on Staff, if it would agree to not seek the destruction of the lodge anymore. Crying from happiness, the Hat accepted, became the crown for His Grace, and would be passed from King to King for eternity.

OUTDOOR SKILLS

World-renowned as first-class Sasquatch hunters, the Outdoor Skills staff had several very successful hunting expeditions, as everyone knows. However, some do not know the horrifying truth about their last and final hunt. The following is an incomplete account of the expeditions; these passages are from a mangled diary found near the last known location of the hunters.

Day 1 - A call was received today from a mysterious Carl Ekdahl, an apparent camp ranger at a local camp. He has reason to believe that a Sasquatch is stealing boats from the locals and dragging them to his camp. We're going to need our best team on this hunt to bring down the terrible beast.

OUTDOOR SKILLS

Day 2 - Our staff assembled at the camp. Heading up the expedition is Nick, a well-seasoned hunter with many successful hunts under his belt. At his sides are his two most trusted companion hunters, Cody and Chunk. Supporting Chunk is Chris, who has one year of hunting behind him already. Ben and Colin, however, are new to the hunt. Supporting Cody are Riley and Aiden, who were both trained in the art of the hunt last year. Little is known about the newest member of Cody's team, Coleman Free. Seems to be a wildcard and a loose cannon. Word on the street is that he's secret underground freedom fighter, and once disabled five undercover terrorist's singlehandedly. We'll see when he gets to showcase his skills.

Day 6 - Cody and his team went out for supplies this morning and we haven't seen him all day. I'm sure they'll be back soon. Perhaps they went searching for Sean Anderson, a retired hunter who could lift stones and bend spoons with psychic energy.

Day 9 - Cody and his team finally made their way back to base camp, looking worse for the wear. At least, most of the team; nobody could say where Coleman went. They said he was playing with his iPod the last time they saw him, heard a crashing noise, a scream, and he hasn't been seen since. Only his Nalgene survival kit was found.

Day 12 - While on our trek, Colin attempted to answer Nature's call and unwittingly watered the Sasquatch's foot. With a mighty bellow, the Sasquatch clubbed Colin in the head and ran out into the forest. That damned Sasquatch! We gave chase for many, many paces but were unable to catch the nimble creature and it disappeared from sight. He ran through the briars and he ran through the brambles and he ran through the bushes where the rabbits couldn't go. We followed the tracks until they led straight out into the lake and disappeared. An anti-concussion helmet was crafted for the safety of our injured hunter, Colin.

Day 14 - We came across a fellow traveler by the name of Connor King. Connor had constructed a lake-worthy vessel to cross the water, and had also found our missing hunter. He had apparently been lounging about in a cabin nearby because it had free wi-fi.

Day 21 - Nothing to report. Staff uneasy, no paychecks sighted so far. Morale is low.

Day 28 - On our trans-lake voyage, we were attacked by a vicious crew of pirates branded by the number 606. They kidnapped Aiden and disappeared into the mist before anything could be done. He will be missed, and a sailor's funeral will be prepared for him.

Day 31 - Supplies were getting very low and delirium is beginning to set in. Riley is constantly playing with dead fish. Ben is wearing a squid on his head, and Chunk whispers incoherently to himself about someone called "The Trash Man." I fear for my team's sanity.

Day 35 - Another Sasquatch sighting! We chased the behemoth up an enormous hill, and lost him at a highway and watched helplessly as he peeled away down the road. Whether this "Route 87" is real or a hallucination created by our lack of supplies, or lack of oxygen from the altitude, we'll never know. However, very real was a pair of abandoned boats, probably left here by the Sasquatch. We stole supplies from the wrecked ships to combat the onset of insanity. We decided to make camp not far from the boats.

Day 40 - Insanity has climbed to an all-time high. Chris was found throwing paper cups full of the last of our white gas into a campfire for his entertainment. Ben was found playing a single song over and over again on an ocarina. Riley kept insisting that we needed to cook up some "purple stew" for dinner, when there are no purple vegetables anywhere in sight. Conversation with Chunk remains unintelligible. His only words for several days have been "You know who it was? That damned Sasquatch!" I fear we may need to admit defeat and turn in our expedition.

Day 42 - I'm not even sure if this really is day 42 anymore. Aiden is found hiking at the back of the group, acting as if he hadn't been missing for weeks. He also looks strangely well-fed and in good spirits. Maybe the pirates weren't so bad after all.

Day 43 - Cody went missing again. Before we lose any more lives I'm going to call off the hunt. Upon arrival back at our extraction point, Cody was found idly standing next to none other than the one we've been hunting! This proved too much for Chunk, as he flew into a rage. Foam and spittle flew from his mouth as he shrieked about that damned Sasquatch. He's being airlifted now to a mental ward. Cody explained that he was approached this morning by the Sasquatch, who asked if he wanted to go sailing. The Sasquatch was wearing an ID badge carrying the name "Tim Sayers."

HANDICRAFT

Final Journal Entry

8/3/2013

Another year down, and still we have not managed to successfully fend off Connor, the perverted. Everyday he finds a new way to sneak into the building, despite the best efforts of Zane, Eli, and Gretchen. We have attempted tying him from the rafters, eating his pringles, and branding him with the fleur de lis, and still he does not leave... We went so far as to recruit outside help, but not even Durand's kiss was enough discourage him from coming back. In our spare time when we are not plotting against Connor, we have been busy encouraging small children to run around with knives, burning illegal hobo fires and planning new ways to get rid of that darn Indian Stick. Somehow it just keeps appearing back in Handicraft. We have been actively searching for the culprit, but we have yet to uncover his true identity. I don't know if we are going to last long enough to figure it out as our eminent death is a mere 24 hours away. With no hope in site, our hobo fire is rapidly dying, and I can see Connor and the Indian stick immersing out of the knot weed coming towards us. I don't think our vast amount of hammers will be enough to fend them off entirely...

WATERFRONT

I REMEMBER THE DAY THEY CAME. IT WAS COLD AND WINDY, A DARK, HEAVY AIR FOR A DARK, HEAVY TIME. MY NAME IS ANDREW DURAND. I'M THE WATERFRONT DIRECTOR. MY JOB SEEMED PRETTY SIMPLE. TRAIN MY STAFF, DRIVE BOATS, AND TRY NOT TO DROWN. THE FIRST WEEK WAS GOOD. THE STAFF WAS FINE, JOHN VORSTADT, MY ASSISTANT, HELPED ME PUT TOGETHER A STELLAR GROUP. JON MILK, JOHN EARLY, MAX STAMMER, MAX (MOOKIE) CARTER, AND JOSH SHANK. WE WERE HAPPY AND FROLICKING IN THE WATER FOR A WHOLE WEEK.

THAT ALL CHANGED WHEN THE SCOUTS SHOWED UP.

MONSTERS THEY WERE, TINY LITTLE BALLS OF FURIOUS, BOAT DESTROYING ENERGY. THEIR ATTEMPTS TO CONSTANTLY DROWN WERE BARELY FENDED OFF BY THE STAFF, ALTHOUGH MORE HELP WAS NEEDED TO ASSIST IN THIS ENDEAVOR. KEVIN VORSTADT RETURNED TO AID IN THE STRUGGLE, AS WELL AS THEO MOORE, CRAIG AND SCOTT LORD, AND TREVOR PASSETTI. TOGETHER THEY BECAME ONE TO STOP THE SCOUTS FROM DROWNING, AND WE MANAGED TO GET THEM TO PASS SOME MERIT BADGES, DESPITE THEIR BEST ATTEMPTS TO AVOID EARNING THEM.

AT THE END OF EACH WEEK, THE TENACITY OF THE STAFF OUTDID THE FEROCITY OF THE SCOUTS, AND EACH TIME THE WATERFRONT STAFF PREVAILLED IN THEIR STRUGGLE. FIXING BOATS, PATCHING ZEBRA MUSSEL CUTS, SAVING DROWNING IDIOTS, AND TEACHING SCOUTS TO FLOAT WERE PART OF THEIR REGULAR DUTIES. AND THEY WERE WELL PERFORMED. WE NOW WAIT WITH BAITED BREATH TO FIND OUT WHAT WERE GOING TO DO NEXT YEAR.

DON'T DRINK THE WATER.

TRADING POST

The castle known as the trading post was once ruled by a queen known as Gretchen. 4 years ago a Mikey became the new king, ruling with loud dance music, craziness, and the power to corrupt people. As years go by the king started developing psychic powers, he started knowing everything that went on in camp. Secrets flying everywhere and he knew all of them. Not too long ago a new prince came in his name was Marcus. He was a shy prince at first very nervous not knowing what to do. As time went on the prince became corrupted started chasing deer yelling random things out of car windows, changing hair colors. All was good in the trading post kingdom ruled by insanity and sugar. Many battles with an evil wizard we have defeated him most of the time. After a long ruling the king is now training the prince in the ways of mind reading and ruling the castle. So the king may rule artsy fartsy possibly. The king has complete confidence the prince will rule with amazing rulings.

KITCHEN

Services has had a super summer this year. We served 2,850 hamburgers, went through 200 lbs of onions, 20 cases of cantaloupe, 72 boxes of ice cream, and the list goes on and on.

We made a great team, Mama K, Ken, and Megan, with Mark and Wayne as volunteers. The hottest it got in the kitchen was 109°, and we survived. The dishwashers, Ryan, Danny, Keona, Andy, and Dan learned very quickly how to move the dish system, and they were done way before any dishwashers in the past.

Our lovely Dining Hall Stewart, Chase finally learned how to do bugle call very well. Seems like forever he was filling water jugs and coffee pots. Always in the dining hall by 5:30am. Good Work!

We'd like to thank the staff for covering for us on Wednesday, so that we could have a night out! Thanks everyone for one great summer! Chow!

GARY OWENS OWN

In keeping with its honored tradition the Camp Barton Band continued to inspire and amaze campers and staff alike. Marching to a sound seldom, if ever, heard along the banks of Cayuga Lake this years' assortment of 'Lost Boys', assisted by a wide verity of guest artists, assembled every afternoon to joyfully lead camp to Evening Retreat and the lowering of our Rations Colors. Highlight of the season was providing background music for the 137th anniversary re-enactment of the famed 7th Cavalry's battle at the Little Big Horn. 'Gary Owen'!
